A new association called the Knoxville Histrionic Society has been organized in our city. They intend to make their debut on the stage in Mr. Staub's Opera House, which is uow almost completed. The opening piece will be a play by Sheridan Knowles, entitled William Tell. From what knowledge we have of the members who compose this society we are satisfied that Mr. Staub will be in some measure repaid for his enterprise in giving to Knoxville her first re-spectable place of amusement.

Is he For Grant?

EDITORS CHRONICLE: It is generally understood that Col. John J. Craig is going to be a candidate to represent Knox county in the next come out over your own signature and say so. The Republicans propose to send a Grant man to the Legislature from this county by a majority of one thousand.

From Abroad.

"The cheerful horse-fly is said to 'gaily perambulate the spinal column of Tennessee horses and the vocalistic mosquito hovers about their roosts and frighten the lusty fowls, who mistake them for chicken-hawks."

And the Courier-Journal might add that, as and the Courier-Journal might add that, as no physicians of "large practice" signed a petition to chain the hogs of Knoxville, those pleasant street pets roam unmolested the streets of the city. As the city needs better health and more scavengers under the advice of physicians of the city. As the city needs better health and more scavengers under the advice of physicians of "large practice," we are to add rats and mice to the scavenger force. The more scavengers the cleaner the streets and the more healthful the city. All offal and filth must go into the streets, and, therefore, hogs, pigs, dogs, rats, mice and vermin are needed to keep us from a position" that the press should talk so much about hogs. After dinner the gentleman happened to look out of the window and saw that his saddle was gone. He remarked to his host that some one had stolen his saddle. He and Mr. K. immediately went out to look for it. They found some large feetprints near the place found some large footprints near the place where the saddle had been. The club will meet regularly once a week. Greeley stock is low among the

Thursday evening John Kimbro, Jr., a lad about fifteen years of age was arrested, being charged with breaking into the store house of P. C. Wilson, on or about the 24th of June last in the night time, and appropriating to his own use and benefit money to the amount of about $25.00. This daring juvenile had his trial before Esquires Horton and Gettys and was committed to jail to await a trial before a higher tribunal.

The large bell at the University building has been broken, some say, from the outside, indi-cating that some malicious, soulless being has thus attempted to satisfy his fiendish propensities by destroying what was at once a public use and a public benefaction. The indentations on the outside of the bell lead to this opinion. A STRAW into the Greeley camp. The race promises to be a lively one. The disaffection in the Conservative ranks augurs well for the Republican cause. Already we hear leading rebels say: "If Key does not resign his Chancellorship he will be beaten," Key very well knows a "bird in the hand" etc., and he will be slow to let it go, notwithstanding the many applications to serve the people in the capacity of Chancellor since, and even before the Cleveland Convention. Since that convention the candidate to represent this county in the Legislation has withdrawn. The result is the same in two or three other counties. The candidate for State Senator from the district, including this county, refuses to make the race. All over the district Conservative men are speaking out. The do not propose to be rebel henchmen any longer.

Several prominent Republicans have been mentioned in connection with the Congressional canvass. Col. Taylor of this place has been repeatedly called upon and interviewed. Some have already declared him a candidate. He has not authorized this, nor do I believe he will consent to become a candidate. He is a good and true man, and his labors are as badly needed in the pulpit as in the political arena, and he approach to be a political arena, and he approach to the cotton States. Right manfully do we expect him to bear it, too. No matter who the nominee may be, the Republicans of this district will move to his support in a solid column, and they will be joined by good and true men who have hitherto been voting against them.

East Tennessee Stereoscoped.

Our accomplished artist T. M. Schleier, just returned from one of his sketching and stercoscopic expeditions into the mountains of East Tennessee, traversed by the beautiful Ocoee river. It is needless to say that all the stereoscopic views obtained by him are of exquisite beauty and finish. The stream referred to passes through some magnificent scenery and has a fall of over 900 in 24 miles.

This enterprise undertaken by Mr. Schleier is of more than ordinary benefit to our section because it brings the beauties of East Tennessee by means of these pictures to the view of thou-sands of people elsewhere, and thus attracts them to us. We recommend these stereoscopic pictures to the public and we have no doubt Mr. Schleier's great exertions in procuring these views will be fully rewarded by an appreciating

WHOLESALE MARKET REPORT

CORRECTED DAILY BY J. W. GAUT,

Market Place, Produce and Commission Merchant,

KNOXVILLE, TENN., Aug. 14, 1872. The activity in Wheat noticed in our last report continues with buyers at full prices for all good Wheat offered. Inferior and trashy Wheat sells slowly at prices far below quotations, and never gives satisfaction. The continued dry weather in upper East Tennessee, causes apprehension for the Corn crop, and has tendency to stiffen prices of Wheat, but it will be found that this is local only and will not affect materially the general market. The stock of Corn is exhausted with a fair local and a small shipping demand. Some Corn, held in the hands of farmers, can now be disposed of at 60a65 loose. Oats continue to come in freely and are readily taken at 25a30c per bushel. Hams are much sought after when free from skippers. A limited quantity of Rye is wanted
